District Rain Is Heavy

Wind and Rain Plays Havoc with Holiday Shoppers; Sewers Clogged

An extremely heavy out-of-season rain drenched the Monessen district yesterday, the last day of autumn.

About an inch of rain fell during the 14-hour downpour.

The steady rain, accompanied at times by a strong wind, played havoc with Christmas shoppers and traffic. Merchants, who had visions of one of their busiest pre-Christmas shopping days yesterday, complained that the unusually heavy rain gave them one of their "slowest" holiday shopping days in years.

The downpour also played havoc with sewers, falling so quickly and steadily that sewers became overloaded and backed up.

Basements Flooded

Basements in many homes in the downtown and hill sections became flooded. Backed up sewers filled the Park Casino's cellar with nearly 18 inches of rain Firemen from Monessen Hilltop Station aided Joseph Vizza, owner, in pumping out the overflow.

The rain had a bright side, however. District farmers claimed it was the "best rain for farms" in seven months.

Rain stopped falling late last night.

Skies were clearing slowly this morning and sunny weather was expected by afternoon, according to weather bureau reports.

Temperatures High

A southwesterly flow of air will cause temperatures to remain mild, but highs will not be as warm as Friday, ranging from the 40s throughout most of the state to the 50s in south central and southeast.

Tonight's weather was expected to be fair throughout the state. Lows will be in the 30s, except in the southeast where they will be around 40, and the northwest, where they will go down to the upper 20s.

Sunny weather is expected to continue in central and eastern parts of the state Sunday, while increasing cloudiness is forecast for the western portions.

Highs Sunday will range from the 30s in the northwest to near 50 in the southeastern section.

REMOVE CHRISTMAS TREE — Monessen's "prettiest and biggest" Christmas tree was being stripped of its trimmings today. The finely tapered 35 foot tree, bearing over 200 boxes of tinsel, served as the principal decoration for last night's "Silver Bell" dance at the Monessen High gymnasium. It took nine men to carry the tree into the building. A block-and-tackle was required to hoist the evergreen into position. Just everyone who examined the tree agreed with Mrs. Dorothy Hicks, Senior Class sponsor, who observed: "It's the prettiest tree I've ever seen." Too large to remove, the tree will have to be cut in pieces to clear the gym floor for basketball practice. Eleven-year-old Martin Rock, Monessen, has already started the long job of removing the tinsel.

Burglary at Charleroi Shop

Charleroi police today are investigating the burglary at Frank's Mens Shop, 531 McKean Ave., Charleroi, late last night or early this morning.

About $100 in change was taken from a cash register. Prosper and Frank Gilli, co-owners, said today.

Entrance was made by removing a door in the rear of the store.

An inventory will be made to see if anything else was taken.

The burglary, which was discovered by a janitor, happened between 11:15 p. m. and 12:15 a. m.

License Suspended

The state Liquor Control Board today suspended the license of the Bruce Hotel, 42 Market St., Brownsville, for 15 days, effective Jan. 14. The charge was gambling.

Youth Who Shot Father May Get Home for Holiday

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Ten-year-old Harry D. Geyer Jr., who shot and killed his father Nov. 18, may be home for Christmas.

Bond of $10,000 was set for the Level Green youngster Friday.

Westmoreland County Judge Richard D. Laird ordered that after bond is posted, young Geyer be released from the Torrance State Hospital in the custody of his mother, Mrs. Ruby Geyer, until the next court term.

The boy has been undergoing psychiatric examination at the hospital.

He has been charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of his father, Harry D. Geyer Sr., a Pittsburgh Railways Co. employe.

Police said the boy told them he had been contemplating shooting his father for a long time because he had been too strict. The shooting allegedly took place after the father ordered the boy to eat a certain brand of cereal.

Two Fired at Missile Center; Security Risks

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A stringent crackdown on security regulations at the Air Force missile test center has cost two government employes their jobs and resulted in penalties for four others.

Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the missile test center, warned base personnel Friday that publicity given the unsuccessful Vanguard launching did not signal the lifting of security barriers on other missiles.

The firings followed an order barring cameramen from photographing missile firings from vantage points on surrounding sand dunes near the tip of Cape Canaveral and was another step in the clamping of stricter security regulations at the base.

It was reported that two government employes were discharged, a contractor was suspended, a visiting contractor's security was revoked and two other persons resigned.

Lt. Col. Sam Bruno, provost marshal at the center, said most of the base personnel observed security regulations.

Larry Gelotti, West Brownsville, and Matthew Bednarzyk, 426 Scott St., Monessen, were the drivers involved in an accident at 3:50 p. m. near Fifth St. and Donner Ave.

No injuries were reported in either accident.

Donora's Annexation Battle Jumps Hurdle

Donora's long and involved battle to annex a part of Carroll Twp. got by a big hurdle yesterday.

Washington County Court, sitting en banc, ruled that the annexation proceedings had stayed within all legal boundaries.

Carroll Twp. Supervisors had asked the court to throw out the proceedings, charging that the borough had no legal right to seek annexation at this time.

The Washington County judges also set up a three-member board of commissioners to inquire into the "propriety" of the annexation and report to the court within 60 days.

The order was attached to an opinion written by Judge David H. Weiner who had taken the testimony in the case although the law was argued before the court en banc.

The opinion found chiefly two things:

First, that the previous annexation proceedings by Donora had met judicial defeat and not legislative defeat and Donora was not thus bound to wait five years to proceed with the annexation a second time.

Second, the opinion found that there were sufficient bonafide signatures of freeholders in the land to be annexed. More than one-half the freeholders is the minimum.

Something over 100 acres of Carroll Township adjacent to Donora Borough is affected by the annexation.

In th previous effort to annex, the court found that Borough Council had not properly recorded the votes of individual councilmen in over-riding the ordinance veto of Burgess August Z. Chambon. When Donora began its second effort to annex, Carroll Twp. residents filed a complaint and this brought the matter to the attention of the court the second time.

Appointed to the board of commissioners who make the inquiry into the propriety of the annexation were Attorney Wray G. Zelt Jr., of Washington, J. Harper Manon and Henry Lowstuter.

Reds Turn Down NATO Proposal for Conference

Ike Plans Missiles Fund Drive

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today was reported ready to push a "crash" program in Congress to spot ballistic missiles quickly in strategic NATO countries.

Informed sources said the President is planning to ask for the money in an all-out emergency drive to move up the deadline—previously set for mid-1959—for placing Intermediate Range Ballistice Missiles (IRBMs) in defensive positions against Russia.

NATO military chiefs agreed this week, the sources revealed, to basing IRBMs in Britain, Turkey, France and The Netherlands in that order of priority.

But defense experts questioned how much the deadline could be advanced, even if funds were made available immediately.

Ike Prepares Report

First there is the problem of getting the missiles into production. And the selection of sites, construction of the bases and the working out of agreements on who will pull the trigger in case of attack are all expected to be time-consuming.

The President, who kept his schedule clear of appointments today, was preparing his report to the nation Monday night on the decisions made at the NATO meeting. He may shed more light then on missile-base plans.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said in Madrid he had discussed with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco in an "intimate" NATO report Friday "the possibility of missiles being brought to Europe."

Dulles Due Back

"But we did not mention the possibility of missiles being based in Spain," Dulles said. The secretary, who held a two-hour talk with Franco, was due back in Washington this afternoon.

Paris sources indicated Dulles may have been sounding out Franco. They said the United States was considering negotiating with Spain for setting up American missile bases, although Spain is not a NATO member.

No price tag was placed by sources here on the reported Eisenhower plan to hurry up the European missile bases.

But they said that, under the plan missiles would be given as direct U.S. aid to the four nations, with this country helping financially in constructing the bases.

Given Tip-Off

Americans were given a somber tip-off Friday that the drive to checkmate Russia's missile might was going to cost plenty — and practically erase any faint hopes of a tax reduction next year.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said the President would ask for about one billion dollars more for defense in a supplemental appropriation for this fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1958. It would be in addition to an expected increase of about 2 billion dollars in the 1959 defense budget.

McElroy said the new money was needed because of an increase in spending for missiles and other defense projects. He emphasized the missile program played a "very big" role in the decision to go to Congress for more funds.

'REASONABLY GOOD' — Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell predicts that 1958 will be a "reasonably good year" for the nation's economy. He also said that unemployment will increase in the next few months.

Steel Workers To Get Five Cent Increase

PITTSBURGH (UP) — About 775,000 members of the United Steelworkers in the steel, aluminum and can manufacturing industries will receive a wage increase of five cents an hour because of the rise in the cost of living over the past six months, the union announced today.

The increase brings to 12 cents the total in cost-of-living pay boosts granted union members this year—the first full year the union has had a cost-of-living clause in its contracts.

The USW said 700,000 members in the steel industry will receive the new pay increase in January. About 40,000 members in the aluminum industry will receive it in February, and 35,000 members in the can manufacturing industry in April.

The USW members had received cost-of-living wage increases of 3 cents in January and 4 cents in June. The new increase is based on the rise in the cost of living from May, when the index was 119.6, to November, when the index soared to 121.6.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., which also has cost-of-living adjustment clauses in its contracts, said the November index would not affect its employes. Westinghouse employes received cost-of-living increases last month.

Khrushchev Proposes Top-level Meetings With Ike Be Scheduled

MOSCOW (UP) — Nikita Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today rejected the NATO call for a foreign ministers conference and said world problems could only be solved with an East-West "summit" conference with President Eisenhower.

The call for a top-level conference came from Khrushchev, the leader of the Communist Party, who said such a meeting could solve all outstanding problems including disarmament in this age of missiles and Sputniks.

Gromyko spoke first at a joint session of the supreme Soviet (Parliament). In a 40-minute speech he accused the West—especially Britain, France, the United States and Canada — of hampering disarmament by linking it with such "extraneous subjects as Germany."

Speaks On NATO

Gromyko said the Western nations, which with Russia formed a five nation United Nations disarmament subcommittee, continued the arms race while finding "new obstacles" to disarmament all along the line.

Gromyko said the West must keep disarmament from becoming the subject of international bargaining and said the Sputniks had "improved the international political climate."

Gromyko proposed "a special United Nations session or a disarmament conference" be held on the problem instead of leaving it to a disarmament subcommittee.

He said the NATO proposal of talks between the ministers of five powers could not satisfy Russia or be accepted. He added that the disarmament issue should not remain stalemated.

He spoke of the jet - ended NATO session in Paris and said Denmark, Norway and France urged action on the peace proposals put forward by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and declared that Denmark and Norway do not want American missile bases.

Speech Indicates Rejection

The arming of West Germany with missiles would be a "danger to Europe," Gromyko said.

Gromyko's bluntly worded speech appeared to be an outright rejection of the NATO conference's invitation to Russia to resume disarmament talks at the United Nations, or to discuss arms in a foreign ministers conference.

"It would not be hard to guess what would happen if we sat down for talks under conditions that can bring no solution on disarmament," the foreign minister said.

Endorses Gromyko's Speech

Khrushchev then mounted the rostrum in the old Czarist throne room of the grand palace of the Kremlin and endorsed Gromyko's speech.

The Communist leader repeated his proposal for a summit conference which he said "would solve the problems which bother humanity, including disarmament."

Khrushchev also rejected any arms talks by the new and enlarged U.N. Disarmament Committee which he said was the same as the previous five-nation committee. Russia has boycotted such committee meetings in New York.

District Woman Hurt as Auto Upsets on Road

Mrs. Rosa McCarthy, 35, R. D. 1, Arnold City, was taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital with injuries suffered in one of two motor crashes reported in the district yesterday.

Mrs. McCarthy received multiple cuts about the head and injuries to the chest, hips and legs. She was reported in "fair" condition this morning.

According to reports, Mrs. McCarthy was traveling along on Route 88 in Speers Borough when the car went off the road. She lost control, causing the car to hit a soft shoulder, go up an embankment, strike a utility pole and overturn. The vehicle landed on its top.

The car was demolished. The crash which occurred about 4:10 p. m., tied up traffic on the busy highway for nearly 30 minutes.

Two cars were involved in an accident on the Bunola-Elidabeth Rd. about 11:45 p. m.

Drivers were Carl Folk, 20, and Joseph Kereckman, 28, both of Clairton.

Damage was estimated at $1,800.

Lawrence Maps Plan to Rescue Transit System

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mayor David L. Lawrence has called a top-level meeting Monday to map an all-out campaign to "rescue" faltering mass public transit in the Pittsburgh district.

The mayor, worried over the drop in bus and trolley riders since the end of the 56-day transit strike on Dec. 9, invited 17 representatives of business, civic and labor groups to the meeting.

"Everyone in the Pittsburgh area should know, after the 56-day mass transit strike, how important mass transportation is to the life and progress of this community," the mayor said.

"Now that the strike is over, the time is appropriate to take some vigorous steps to encourage fuller use of the street cars and buses which now are available."

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has reported a sharp drop in passenger volume and revenue since the end of the strike.

The trend toward the use of automobiles which was heightened during the strike was blamed for the drop in the use of public transit.

County May Make Changes in Office, Courtroom of Judge-elect

Westmoreland County Commissioners have agreed to consider extensive changes in the offices and courtroom of Judge-elect L. Alexander Sculco.

At a meeting of the commissioners this week, Robert J. Brocker, Greensburg architect, estimated that the proposed alterations will cost between $30,000 and $35,000.

Judge Laird, who will retire the first Monday in January, has been occupying two small rooms adjoining his large courtroom for the past 20 years. The space is very limited compared to other judicial chambers in the courthouse.

Brocker suggested that the adjoining rooms be enlarged by taking away some of the courtroom.

The high cost, Brocker stated, was due partly to a great deal of necessary changing of the interior and some of the present architecture in the courtroom.

Commissioner's Board Chairman Kilgore said the project will have to be considered in making up next year's budget, work on which is to begin soon, and there was no action taken by the commissioners at the meeting.

Brocker also had ready and presented some plans for the changes to be made in the office of the recorder of deeds which is in need of more space. He said specifications are now in the process of preparation.

County Solicitor P.K. Jones told the commissioners that, after a study, he believes the county has some untapped sources of revenue from which additional four-mills personal property tax may be derived.

He was authorized by the commissioners to confer with Ruth Schick, in charge of the personal property tax collections, and take what action is necessary, especially in the collection of delinquent accounts and liens. This matter was discussed at some length during which the county solicitor quoted various sections of the law pertaining to the collection of this tax on a number of other items.

Solicitor Jones also told the commissioners that Federal Judge Rabe F. Marsh has offered the county a set of books of Purdon's Legal Digest, an authority on law.

The commissioners accepted Judge Marsh's offer and authorized that a letter be sent to the jurist thanking him for his kindness.

The Addressograph Co., which is preparing a machine to issue tax duplicates and thus eliminate the large cost of transcribing names on the tax books, sought to have a check returned which was deposited when the firm first bid on the contract. After some discussion, it was decided to advise the company that if they want the check returned they will be

Eisenhowers Planning Quiet Christmas at White House, Farm

WASHINGTON (UP)—President and Mrs Eisenhower may make Christmas the occasion for a long holiday weekend divided between the White House and their Gettysburg farm

That was the unofficial talk around the White House today Their plans have not yet been announced

The President s doctors may have a voice in the decision depending on how they think he stood the strain of the Paris NATO meeting

Their prescription of rest at every opportunity in Eisenhower's recovery from the Nov. 25 mild stroke probably will rule out another long trip — such as to Augusta, Ga —at this time

The Eisenhowers spent Christmas in 1953 and 1954 in their Augusta golf course cottage The past two years they presided over big family gatherings at the White House

They have never spent a Christmas at their Pennsylvania farm, where a little snow can turn the landscape into a classic Yuletide scene

Talk around the White House late this week was that the same plan might be followed at Christmas time

The President will formally light the national Christmas tree on the ellipse just south of the White House Monday afternoon The televised ceremony will key similar rites in many other cities

The first family's Christmas plans almost certainly will include the grandchildren — Maj John's son David, 9, and daughters Barbara Ann, 8, Susan, 6, and Mary Jean, 2 The young Eisenhowers live in nearby Alexandria, Va , and also have a cottage on the edge of the President's Gettysburg farm

CANDLE IN THE NIGHT

Simplest, humblest gleam of light . . . yet it rolls back the shadows. And striking the new-fallen snow, it casts a dazzling halo upon boughs of pine and holly.

Like a candle in the night Christmas rolls back the shadows of time, and touching the life of man, gives an aura of peace and good will to every day and deed.

It was truly the simplest and humblest event in history, this birth of a child in a stable. But from it shines "the true Light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world" And to live in that Light, to reflect it upon the world around us, this is peace and good will.

Like a candle in the night the Church beckons us to the gleam of its ageless Truth. And as we come to live by the Church's teaching, our faith will roll back the shadows for those around us.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily

Case of 'Poison Pen' Pamphlets To Close Today

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP) — Defense and Commonwealth attorneys presented closing arguments today in the "poison pen" political pamphlet trial.

Following the arguments Judge Burton L. Laub, of Erie County, was to charge the jury.

Judge Laub, presiding by appointment of the state Supreme Court, held another night session Friday in an effort to speed the trial to a conclusion before Christmas.

Friday's session was highlighted by the testimony of Dist. Atty. Perry L. Reeher, one of the seven defendants charged with conspiracy to violate the election code in the publication and distribution of unsigned pamphlets attacking candidates in the Republican primary last May.

Reeher branded the charges a "scheme" against him and his co-defendants.

"I had nothing to do with the printing and distribution of the pamphlets," he said. "I did not conspire with anyone to have them distributed."

Candidates attacked in the pamphlets included Reecher's opponent in the Republican primary, Howard Lyon. Reecher won the primary but lost in the general election in November.

The pamphlets, pink and white slips, blanketed the New Castle area the night before the May 21 primary.

Reeher said he first learned of the political slips through his wife. She learned of them through James Messner, a Republican candidate for sheriff, he said.

The 41-year-old district attorney took issue with the testimony of two state witnesses.

State Rep. Dominick Cioffi (D-Lawrence) had testified Reeher came to his home to ask help in arranging a meeting between the district attorney and state Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride to try and quash the case.

Reeher testified Cioffi called him first and that it was Cioffi who suggested the interview with the attorney general.

"We all knew it was a political investigation in a scheme against me. If they choose to arrest me there will be a lot of innocent people hurt," Reeher said.

Reeher also took exception to a statement by state police Sgt. Henry C. Fagley that the district attorney complained about a raid made in New Castle on Dec. 9, 1955.

and slides. The Brotherhood of St. Luke will provide a treat.

A pageant, "He Came to Bethlehem" will be presented at 7:30 p. m. at the Evangelical United Brethren Church. Mrs. Joseph Shepherd will be the director, and background music will be by the Junior Choir.

Other Protestant churches in the district plan special Christmas sermons tomorrow. Most of the churches will also hold Christmas Eve or Christmas Day services.

In Catholic Churches, tomorrow will be the final Sunday in advent, a period of fasting and penitence.

Midnight masses on Christmas will herald the birth of Jesus.

On Christmas morning, a steady succession of masses will be celebrated in Catholic churches. The church permits priests to say three masses instead of the usual two to emphasize the importance of the feast.

Both St. Mary's Greek Catholic and St. Spyridon's Greek Orthodox Churches will also observe Christmas on Wednesday.

However three orthodox churches in the city will celebrate Christmas on Jan. 7; St. John The Divine Russian Orthodox, St. Michael's Syrian Orthodox Church, and St. Nicholas Ukranian Orthodox Church.

TWISTED OUT OF BUSINESS — This grocery store in Wood River, Ill., just across the Mississippi from St. Louis, is out of business after a tornado came to call. The grocery owner, Sam Guccione, 81, was treated for minor injuries at a hospital.

Nation Hard Hit by Weather; Heavy Rains Cause Damage

By UNITED PRESS

Hostile skies which unleashed a series of rare December tornadoes in the Midwest late this week followed up with small twisters in the South, then covered the nation with a perverse weather pattern.

Tornado - hit areas in the midwest were pelted with heavy rains which diminished late Friday, but a warning was issued that the Sangamon River in central Illinois would crest four feet above flood stage today.

Other heavy rains caused six highways to be closed in Indiana and forced four Terre Haute families to abandon their homes.

Several small wind funnels touched at Littleville and Clanton, Ala., injuring seven persons, destroying several homes and damaging at least 50 others.

Families Warned

In Oakland, N.J., police warned 300 families they may have to evacuate their homes as the Ramapo River rose to 4.5 feet above normal early today. Heavy rains had already caused swirling waters to course through the streets in three sections of the city.

Murphysboro, Ill., chief victim of the roving band of tornadoes, was still without electricity late Friday, and cold, drizzly weather prevailed. Plans were being made to rebuild and provide food, warmth and clothing for the tornado's victims.

Warm temperatures with heavy showers prevailed over the area east of the Ohio Valley into New England and the Mid-Atlantic Coast states. Temperatures in the 50s and 60s were general in most of New England, and rain deposits up to an inch occurred in parts of New York and Pennsylvania.

Woman Crushed to Death by Train

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UP) — Julia Luzik, 64, McKeesport, was crushed to death Friday beneath a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train at the Lysle Blvd. crossing.

Patrolman George S. Cielieska said he saw the woman step on the tracks as the train approached and shouted a warning. But it was raining heavily at the time and she apparently did not hear him.

Four Injured in Two Car Crash

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Four persons were injured Friday night when an automobile crashed into the rear of another car which was starting up after stopping for a traffic light.

The gasoline tank of the machine which was struck from the rear exploded, setting the vehicle afire.

The injured were Stephen Jezik, 28, 1278 Eleventh Ave., Natrona; William C. Kappes, 26, Pittsburgh; Frank Sacchi, 30, of 725 Camp St., McKees Rocks, and Fire Capt. Edward Wolny, who suffered a severe hand cut while helping put out the fire.

Jezik, a passenger in Kappes' car, was thrown through the windshield when the vehicle smashed into Sacchi's auto.

Judge Laird Is Honored Guest At Testimonial

Judge Richard D. Laird, who will retire from the Westmoreland County bench on Jan. 6, was honored Thursday evening by the County Bar Association at the Penn Albert Hotel Roof Garden, Greensburg.

James Gregg, Greensburg, in his testimonial address reviewed the retiring judge's long record of public service. He included the period served as borough councilman, solicitor, district attorney and 20½ years as common pleas judge.

Gregg's address described Judge Laird as "... a public servant whose chief interest was his God and country."

A specially-built leather ottoman-type chair was presented by Atty. Robert W. Smith, Sr., on behalf of the sponsoring association to Judge Laird.

Atty. Vincent R. Smith president of the law association, conducted the affair. He read telegrams from Judge Edward G. Bauer, now hospitalized at Elkins Park, and a letter from Atty. James L. Kennedy of Greensburg.

Invocation was pronounced by Atty. P. K. Jones.

Among the 160 guests attending the testimonial dinner was Charles H. Loucks of Greensburg. Loucks, 92, and Judge Laird are veterans of the Spanish-American War.

Finally, the commissioners agreed to have the special congressional election proclamation published on Jan. 6 as required by law. The election will be held Jan. 21.

Pitt Institute Serving Community

The affairs of many a Western Pennsylvania community are better managed today than ever before because of a cooperative effort with the Institute of Local Government, a srvice organization founded and operated by the University of Pittsburgh.

The Institute offers guidance on the problems facing officers in local governments and sponsors courses for elected and appointed officials, most of them part-time non-professional men and women and many of them lacking in training, staff and research facilities.

The ILG makes available to these people a growing library of reference material on local government matters, and in addition to a regular library bulletin, publishes a newsletter which is distributed to nearly 2,000 officials of townships, boroughs and municipalities in Western Pennsylvania.

Serving also as a secretariat, the ILG handles much of the promotional and clerical detail for the Allegheny County Boroughs Association, the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners, the Pittsburgh Area Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration, the Western Pennsylvania Association for Municipal Managers, and the Southwestern Pennsylvania Municipal Secretaries.

Civil Service Exams

The Institute's personnel services division conducts civil service examinations in a number of governmental jurisdictions, including Allegheny County.

Staff members took on the Institute's relationship with local government units as a sort of mutually-beneficial partnership. For while the townships and municipalities come to the ILG for assistance, the Institute adds to its store of experience and increases its know-how with every such contact.

William G. Willis, Pitt professor of political science who has been the Institute's director since 1953, refers to it as the "town and gown" partnership.

Founded by the University in 1944 to fill an urgent need by government officials in Western Pennsylvania communities, the Institute of Local Government took its place with the Institute of Local and State Government at the University of Pennsylvania and a similar program at Penn State University. The Pitt organization, however, is the only one of the three which places primary emphasis on the in-service training of local government officials.

To give a quick idea of its operations, more than 3,500 persons took part in meetings, conferences and courses sponsored by the Institute during the past operating year. Some 40,000 pieces of mail were sent out, including copies of Institute publications. Requests by local officials for information were handled by the ILG staff at an average rate of three every working day in the year.

Many Courses

Seventy-one municipalities in five counties were represented in five short courses conducted by the ILG during the past year. One course covered advance planning, and there was one each for assessors, building inspectors, advanced elective officials and advanced secretaries.

A major conference on subdivision control held by the Institute attracted 70 delegates representing 43 municipalities. An informational project of major proportions was the assembling of a detailed report on compensation rates for employes in over 100 cities, boroughs and townships, including fringe benefit and other comparative data.

During the past year the ILG also prepared or revised bulletins and reports on such subjects as ward and at-large plans in municipal elections; financing sewage treatment facilities; regulating billboards; differences between first and second class townships; and a directory of Pennsylvania council - manager municipalties and municipal managers.

Crepe-hangers and Second-guessers

PRESIDENT Eisenhower is home from the NATO conference in Paris and, along with Secretary Dulles, is preparing a report to the nation to be delivered Monday evening. But the President's plane had hardly left Paris before his critics at home began to chastise him for not bringing back the peace of the world tied up in Christmas ribbon.

We are beginning to lose patience with some of the crepe-hangers and second-guessers who are addressing the American public these days on subjects involving the conduct of our foreign affairs. By some process of twisted reasoning, they seem to have concluded that the troubles of the world are due mainly to what they call American mistakes. And to reach this conclusion they have had to dismiss from their minds the great controlling factor in world affairs, namely the existence of an outlaw nation of vast power under the absolute control of a band of men who recognize no law except their own misdirected wills and the law of force.

Forgetting this, some American politicians and others have fallen into a dismal routine of carping, whining, hand-wringing criticism. It boils down to this: if only the leaders of the American government weren't so stupid, the world would not be in this mess, Communism would be no threat to freedom, we would have beaten Sputnik into space, we would have the best missiles, everybody in the world would love the United States, etc, etc.

* * *

SILLY, isn't it? Sure, but isn't that about what we're hearing? So ridiculous has it become that some of the very same people who only a few months back were accusing the Eisenhower administration of being "militaristic" are now bellyaching because they say we've become a second-rate power.

If the reader wants examples of this, they are plentiful. Take Rep. George H. Mahon, Democrat, chairman of the Democrat-controlled House subcommittee on Defense Department appropriations. As late as last May, he was bragging about the reductions which had been made in the Eisenhower defense budget. He said: "We even cut missiles a bit, but nobody is going to suffer greatly because we nicked this program about $75 million."

But a few days after Sputnik, Rep. Mahon was saying: "We want to find out and let the American people find out why we are lagging in this field (missiles and satellites) in view of the vast funds provided."

This is the kind of flabby nonsense that is coming from too many men who presume to guide the nation through these hard days.

* * *

PRESIDENT Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles have made mistakes. No doubt they would be the first to say that, in the after light, some things should have been done differently.

But about whom cannot this be said? And in the vast arena of human affairs and in the confusion of the most complex era of history, who but fools could presume to guarantee any nation errorless, infallible leadership?

As for the NATO meeting, this paper is willing to wait for the President's report before forming an opinion as to what was accomplished.

But we hope the American people will not cease to recognize that the absence of peace and freedom in the world is due, not to the errors real or supposed of American leadership, but to the policies of the Soviet rulers. To overlook this, as so many domestic critics do, is to misunderstand everything that is happening in the world.

Charmed Life

JAMES Hoffa, the embattled president-elect of the Teamsters union, seems to have a charmed life so far as the law is concerned. A hung jury, with only one juror of the twelve voting for acquittal, has saved him from conviction on a charge of wire-tapping.

The U.S. attorney in New York City, where the trial was held, says Hoffa will be re-tried promptly on the same charges before a different jury. And such action seems definitely warranted.

Hoffa seems determined to brazen his way to the top of the Teamsters if he has to wreck the union in the process and throw a cloud over the whole labor movement. But so far as the law is concerned, we trust he will be allowed to get away with nothing.

Today and Tomorrow—

Leadership By U.S. Is Lacking

By WALTER LIPPMANN

As the NATO meeting ends, it is harder than ever to understand what we expected to accomplish by inflating its importance. Our purpose, apparently, was to rally the Europeans to two ideas. One was that we should arm them with intermediate range missiles. The other was that they should steadfastly reject the notion of negotiating with the Russians.

Mr. Lippmann

As the missiles do not now exist, and will not be ready for at least a year, we were asking the Europeans to be highly provocative though they remained undefended. They were to provoke the Russians by agreeing to set up missile sites long before the missiles could be stationed at the sites. And they were to provoke the Russians further by refusing to talk seriously with them.

This program was such a crude miscalculation of European interests and of European feelings that it is no wonder the conference has shown such spectacular lack of confidence in American leadership.

Some Rejections

The Norwegians and the Danes have rejected the American military proposal. The British, the Dutch and the Turks have accepted it, though it is far from certain that the British government has the support of the country and is able to make an enduring commitment.

The Continentals, most particularly the Germans, have not accepted and have not rejected the Dulles military proposals. They have taken an option on these proposals. They are treating these options as a bargaining asset in the diplomatic negotiations which, following the Bulganin note, they intend to have with the Russians.

Not the least significant development in these last days is that the forthcoming negotiations with Russia are to be undertaken separately by various countries — particularly, it must be said again, by West Germany. What Mr. Dulles has accomplished by his loud and public protests against negotiation has been to disqualify himself as the negotiator in the negotiations which will nevertheless be carried on. The United States will no doubt be informed and consulted during these negotiations. But the principal negotiator for the Western alliance will be Dr. Adenauer.

Power Shifts

The decline of American leadership in NATO is due primarily, of course, to the strategic consequences of the presumed change in the balance of power. The balance, which has turned against us because the Russians are ahead of us in the big missiles, cannot be righted effectively by the medium range missiles which Mr. Dulles has offered the Europeans. Unless in Europe and Africa there were hundreds of missile sites, too many to be knocked out by the Russians, it is a great question whether a few missile sites have any serious deterrent power.

Our military leadership of NATO is bound to be very weak unless and until we have in active operation on our own territory batteries of inter-continental missiles. This cannot be done soon, and the world will not stand still while we are working to arm ourselves. What we shall find, what in fact we have already found in Paris this week, is that if we renounce diplomacy in the manner of Mr. Dulles, our allies cannot and will not follow our lead.

Dulles on Sidelines

Mr. Dulles will find himself from now on in a very awkward position. He is the foreign minister of the strongest power of the NATO alliance. On the crucial question of negotiating with our great adversary, he is dogmatically at odds with the interests and the purposes of most, if not all, of our European allies. He has dug himself in, first, by an interview broadcast in Europe by the B.B.C. just before the Paris meeting — and second, by his funereal statement in the current issue of Life magazine.

The immediate effect, as we know, is that he is to sit on the sidelines while the Germans talk with Moscow. But what will be the effect in the future if, as might happen, the negotiations arrive at something which is attractive in Europe but requires the participation of the United States government? If, then, there is a failure, will it ever be possible for Mr. Dulles to persuade the people of the world that he has not meant the negotiations to fail? This is a heavy burden which he has chosen — no doubt most conscientiously — to carry on his shoulder.

Nearly eight tons of 36 per cent nickle-iron alloy castings were used in the construction of the structure to support the 200-inch telescopic mirror at Mount Palomar observatory.

From Paris—

Why Talk with Russia?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

PARIS — Have no doubt about it, there has been an extra 16th chair drawn up at the NATO conference table and it has been occupied by a powerful non-member of the Atlantic Alliance.

It has been occupied by none other than the enigmatic goateed figure of Premier Nicolai Bulganin. Though Mr. Bulganin has not quite been here in person, he has loomed large and visible and his presence has been very much felt during every minute of the discussion.

Mr. Drummond

What then are the NATO leaders talking about when they propose in effect to write a letter to Bulganin before deciding to strengthen NATO with modern weapons?

Ostensibly they are talking about disarmament. Maybe, they ask themselves, the Soviets will stop making hydrogen bombs if the West will stop. Maybe they will give up their IRBM's and ICBM's if the West will forego them.

Kremlin Refuses

But we all know that the Kremlin has persistently refused the West's offer to end the manufacture of nuclear weapons, has been willing only to end tests of nuclear weapons. We all know that the Kremlin has always opposed a disarmament agreement to abandon massively destructive weapons, has only favored a non-disarmament promise to never, never use them.

So, when some NATO leaders talk about "sounding out" Mr. Bulganin before strengthening NATO militarily, they are really talking about something else. They are talking about: (1) the possible withdrawal of NATO forces from Germany in return for the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Eastern Europe; (2) the possible demilitarizing and neutralizing of Germany; (3) the possible withdrawal of Germany from NATO as the basis for Moscow permitting German unification.

Now I am not suggesting that within the foregoing three possibilities there is no room for useful negotiation with the Soviets. There is. But I am suggesting that it is an exceedingly riskful venture, that the advantages would seem to lie with the Soviets and that we might well put in motion a chain of events which could not be stopped this side of the disintegration of the whole NATO setup.

Possible Gains

What are the advantages of such a negotiation if it can be carried out without putting NATO itself on the block?

The withdrawal of Soviet forces from Eastern Europe would increase the hope and prospect that Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the other Eastern European satellites could free themselves from Soviet domination and find a way to elect governments of their own choosing. The re-unification of Germany would remove one of the greatest sore spots in post-war East-West relations.

A mutual pull-back of Soviet and NATO forces from confronting each other in the heart of Europe could reduce the risk of an incident, and with modern weapons Western Europe might be defensible with NATO forces deployed further to the West.

Good so far, but what are the vital limits to such a negotiation?

Germany Needed

I raise these questions:

Will the Kremlin permit the unification of Germany without German divisions being withdrawn from NATO and dismantled? The principal Western advocate of German neutralization, Mr. George Kennan, says no.

Can Western Europe mobilize the strength to defend itself? Can NATO long exist without German participation? Western military leaders say absolutely no. Can NATO afford to cut adrift its potentially strongest member?

There are other factors of the gravest importance. West Germany's presence and participation in NATO is the best guarantee of Germany's dedication to the cause of a peaceful Europe.

Germany is a source of strength to NATO, but NATO is also an instrument of restraint on Germany.

Potential Peril

Do we know what will happen if Germany is encouraged to leave NATO? Such a course cannot fail to nourish the most nationalistic forces within Germany. Or Germany cut off from its NATO association, alone and on the loose, could become a peril to the peace of the world.

Would a re-united Germany long allow itself to remain disarmed and impotent?

I doubt it.

The end result, it seems to me, could well be that step by step an isolated Germany would be sucked into the Soviet orbit, leaving the door wide open for the Soviets to paralyze, penetrate and ultimately devour the rest of the European continent.

Truth 'Missile' Poses Threat to Communists

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

With so many powerful new swords being brandished in the world today, we may have trouble remembering that the pen has been known to be mightier.

The word "pen" in the old aphorism, of course, really means truth. And those of us who believe there is a just and all-powerful God in heaven, also believe that the truth must prevail.

I do not take a thing away from the Soviet leaders when it comes to skill and intelligence in running their show. Over the years since end of World War II this paper has been among those which have urged that these men not be underrated. Since Sputnik, there is no longer much danger of that.

But there is a mighty force running against the Soviet masters. It is truth, especially the printed truth.

They fear this force, too — maybe more than they fear the missiles we are now learning to shoot off at Cape Canaveral. Why else do they censor every word their people see or hear? Why else do they need a press under absolute control?

Powerful Book

There is in print right now a book which many experts think has the power to demolish Communism as a serious political system to which any thinking person could adhere as a matter of conviction — if it could only be freely read in the portion of the world now ruled by Communism.

This book is, "The New Class", by Milovan Djilas, a former vice president of Yugoslavia and until a few years ago a dedicated Communist revolutionary.

Djilas is now in prison in Yugoslavia, but he managed to have this manuscript smuggled to the United States. It has been published by Frederick A. Praeger of New York and has been on the non-fiction best-seller lists for several weeks. You will find a copy in the Monessen Public Library.

"The New Class" is a merciless intellectual dissection of Communism both in theory and in practice. It is not exactly easy reading, but it is written in clear prose, and it is such a great contribution to the understanding of our times that it is worth any thoughtful person's attenion.

Djilas traces Communism through the three stages of its development — the revolutionary phase, the so-called "building of socialism" along the lines of Marx and Engels and finally, the establishment of absolute oppression under "collective leadership."

Power of Ruling Clique

It is this leadership which Djilas calls the "new class". It is the Communist bureaucracy whose whole concern now is to maintain its power — by any means. This clique has become the "owners" of property in the Communist dictatorships, and they are more greedy and ruthless as owners than capitalists ever thought of being.

Because they have no legal means of allocating power among themselves, they have fallen into endless personal and group quarrelling, actually killing each other when necessary. And of course maintaining ever tighter the suppression of independent thought.

Now, writes Djilas, the "new class" is being carried along remorselessly from one expedient to another in its efforts to retain the power it has created.

"To the extent," he concludes, "that one class, party or leader stifles criticism completely, or holds absolute power, it or he inevitably falls into an unrealistic, egotistical and pretentious judgment of reality.

Don't Control Deeds

"This is happening today to the Communist leaders. They do not control their deeds, but are forced into them by reality. There are advantages to this: they are now more practical men than they used to be. However, there are also disadvantages, because these leaders basically lack realistic, or even approximately realistic, views. They spend more time defending themselves from world reality and attacking it than they do in getting accustomed to it. . .

"In any case, the world will change and will go in the direction in which it has been moving and must go on — toward greater unity, progress and freedom. The power of reality and the power of life have always been stronger than any kind of brutal force and more real than any theory."

This book is real dynamite. I hear it is finding its way in small quantities over the Iron Curtain and is making a great impression. It could turn out to be more powerful than any missile.

The Lighter Side—

Electronics Takes Over In Toyland this Year

By DOC QUIGG

TOY DEPARTMENT, N.Y. (UP) —If O. Henry were only here, he'd have a proper name for this place: Bedlam-on-the-Electron.

You fight your way through a bramble of humanity toward an escalator sign: "Toy City is on the 5th floor." You ascend on the moving steps bathed in the weird chiming that is the top - secret code of the department store. poom . . . poom . . . poom - poom-poom.

As you near kiddie heaven, there sounds from afar a kazoo-trumpet rasping "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer." Suddenly, you're there. Pure noise, with accent on electronics. Everything moves by batteries.

Sparks fly from the breech of an "electric burp gun — with new recoiling barrel" and its muzzle chatters, ah-ah-ah-ah-ah. Boy in plaid blue shirt shouts: "Looka dis, Grandma! Dis one you work wi' duh finger on duh side — it goes fasteh dan duh uddehs." Crouches and fires, ah-ah-ah-ah-ah.

Clerk Launches Saucer

"Here she goes!" yells a middle-aged clerk with candy stripes on his jacket and the fire of a space cadet in his eyes. He yanks a lever and a flying saucer rises with an eerie whistle and a whoosh of plastic blades, bats into draped holly, and then hovers at the ceiling with a mad whir of its wheel.

"Hey, Sputnik!" the clerk yells in triumph, and then—behind his hand — "I call 'em Sputnik; it's more fun that way."

Hard by, a small fry is drilling holes with a "play drill—just like daddy's." Another is thumbing an "amazing new tele-typer, electronic toy sends and receives tele-grams, news, weather reports." Tots in a test area propel themselves in toy cars by pushing a lever that starts an electric motor. Will kids be born entirely without legs someday? They don't seem to use them much now.

Sorry, Sold Out

Peering through the telescopic sight of a cap-shooting rifle, you focus on a huge newspaper reproduction: "Daily News. Sight Red Baby Moon over U.S." Underneath it is the sales counter of the earth satellites, complete with truck launcher that hurls them 75 feet into space. "Sold out," says the satellite clerk sadly.

"We sold 10,000 satellite rigs in two weeks, despite the subway strike. Biggest seller in the store. However, when the Vanguard failed, sales dropped a couple days. Man, I used to shoot these things right down the aisle. We're also sold out of double-barreled rocket launchers; they fire six missiles."

Wrist radios are prominent. So is a set of two real telephones, with 50 feet of wire, priced, the lady clerk says, at $4.89 (pronounced "foeh eighty noi-yun").

There are some eternal verities. Toy trains, with mostly grown men watching them. Fast-draw, pearl-handle revolvers with jewel holsters. But what's this over here? "Big Max," an automaton monster with flashing lights and one big claw that swings around—as you work levers and buttons—picks up metal bits and puts them on a conveyor belt. Scary.

The happy flying saucer man is still launching as you leave.

"U.P., eh? Well, that's fine. Glad you stopped by. Hey, Sputnik!"

Another Honor for Stan Musial

Another honor has come to Stan (The Man) Musial's way with Sports Illustrated magazine naming Donora's Dandy "Sportsman of the Year" . . . Main reason for the honor (there are many secondary reasons) was because Stan won the battle title this year in the senior circuit with a .351 mark, despite missing 20 days of the season . . . He's already received another top citation, the St. Xavier award presented to him in St. Louis last month . . . Stan plans on spending part of the holiday season in the valley and will renew many acquaintances, especially at the testimonial for Jimmy Russell, his former coach at Donora High, on Dec. 28 at Twin Coaches.

Ernie Kline, brother of Allen Kline, this newspaper's City Editor, did the broadcast of the Monessen - Aliquippa game Thursday night over WBVP, Beaver Falls . . . He has been handling games for the Beaver station plus news broadcasts and other duties for several years . . . Over 100 applicants have "put in" for the New Castle grid job vacated by Jim Curry last month . . . Pete Suder, the former Philadelphia Athletics baseballer, chatted with many Monessen acquaintances at the Greyhound-Quip game the other night . . . Pete has a son playing baseball at Pitt.

* * *

Former 'Hound Altoona Coach

Phil Rice, who'll be coaching the Turtle Creek entry in the Movie Club Tournament here next week, is a former Monessenite. He coached at Altoona High for seven years before going to Turtle Creek . . . He played basketball here, then for the Duquesne Dukes and Westminster . . . Monessen, by the way, played Turtle Creek once before in 1956 in the WPIAL playoff competition at the Pitt Fieldhouse with the locals on the long end of the count . . . Ray Pottios, older brother of Charleroi's Myron (now at Notre Dame) was a strong candidate for the Penn State wrestling team until pinned in the final elimination match for team berths.

Fred Cox, the former Monongahela High star footballer, who is equally at home on a soccer field, will play for Van Voorhis over the Christmas holidays in the Washington County Soccer League . . . Miller Savage of Belle Vernon, is the latest addition to the Vans' roster . . . Miller is a veteran of many soccer seasons . . . Redstone High School's most outstanding athletes were named this past week with Lou DeSimone and Ralph Grooms, both of whom performed in the 'Hawk backfield against the Greyhounds this past season being presented wrist watches as the most valuable players.

High Hopes for ex-Wildcat Star

Big things are expected from another outstanding Monongahela Valley athlete, Mike Dupay, who formerly played for the Monongahela eleven . . . Dupay, who started his senior year in 1955 as one of the most powerful fullbacks seen in the valley in years was slowed by injuries but still impressed enough to win a scholarship to Michigan . . . He has now grown to 230 pounds and stands well over six feet in height . . . He is a certain candidate who is expected to star for the Wolverines next year . . . By the way, the article here about Earl Neil, Bellmar Booster president, and Joe Ferrari, being the tackles on one of Pete Como's unbeaten Belle Vernon elevens had Ferrari too far to one side in the line . . . "Jolly Joe" was the center.

Monessen Juniors Back On Winning Track

Monessen Junior High's basketball hoopsters got back on the winning track at West Newton yesterday with a 46-18 thumping of the West Newton Juniors.

Earlier in the week Uniontown LaFayette had handed the locals their first defeat of the exhibition season.

Two Tonys, Romasco and Caputo, paced the Monessen scoring with 18 and 14 points respectively. Pryor getting six for the best West Newton effort.

Although 15 players saw action for Coach Frederic Feldman's locals, only the first five hit the scoring column. Feldman allowed all his ninth graders to play a portion of the game.

An 18-2 first quarter lead was all the Feldman crew needed to roll to the easy win. West Newton made its best showing in the second quarter when the Little Hornets out-scored Monessen, 8-7.

Very few fouls were called, the locals sinking two of six attempts. West Newton four of nine tries.

Monessen's Juniors are now idle until Jan. 10 when they travel to Monongahela for the league opener, except for a game with Monessen Jayvees Monday night, preliminary to the Varsity Alumni tilt.

Roscoe and Van Voorhis will clash in a district soccer match of interest at the Vans' field Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The two rivals have met twice previously with Van Voorhis coming out on top by a 3-2 count.

Lindy Zememcik, Vans manager, has strengthened his club with the addition of a veteran booter and an outstanding young player.

Miller Savage, of Belle Vernon, a former valley standout and Fred Cox, ex-Monongahela High star have been added to the Vans' roster. Cox will see limited action as he is attending the University of Pittsburgh on a football scholarship.

Rostraver Juniors Defeat Charleroi Second Time, 40-30

Rostraver Junior High's cagers had special reason to enjoy a Christmas party yesterday morning after making "mincemeat" of the Charleroi Juniors for the second time in a week, 40-30.

Playing at an unusual time, 10 o'clock in the morning, to enable the annual holiday party to go on as scheduled, the Little Leopards of Coach George Estok took a 13-0 lead as the Charleroians played "Santa Claus" in failing to get a point the first period.

A close second quarter put the score at 21-7 at halftime the Estokmen jumped the lead to 33-12 at the end of three quarters but an 18-7 last stanza when the Little Leopards became careless, accounted for the close 40-30 final count.

Willie Ross and Tom Newman paced the Rostraver scoring, Ross with 19 points, Newman garnering 11. Abbott was high for Charleroi with 15, Cardinale scoring 10.

'Hounds Await Alumni

Coach Frank Janosik's Monessen High cagers, fresh from an impressive win over Aliquippa Thursday night, today awaited a test with an alumni team, carded for Monday at the Monessen High gym.

Scheduled to see action for the alumni are such outstanding former Greyhound cagers as Ron Minnie, now at Westminster College, Wayne Cipriani of LaFayette College; John Stunda, of North Carolina U., Felton Brown, of Westminister; Ernie Lattanzio of Waynesburg College, and Frank and Tony Crisi. John Bogovich, who had been attending Arizona State College, may also participate in the game.

Another alumni possibility is Maurice Mathieu, although nothing definite has been heard from him as yet.

A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand to see the former MHS stars in action.

Janosik will probably start his usual five of Joe Kurey and Bill Makinen at forwards, Dick DiBiaso at center and George Murin and Charlie Bill at the guards.

Against Aliquippa, Janosik played the starting five the entire game in an attempt to find the answer of why the locals have been faltering in the fourth quarter.

Following the alumni tilt, the 'Hounds next see action in the Movie Club Tournament Friday and Saturday, and then rest until the Section 5-A opener at Brownsville Jan. 3.

Redstone-59 Brownsville-46

A big second half gave Redstone a 59-46 win over Brownsville High last night to avenge an earlier defeat to the Blue and White.

Brownsville led 13-6 at the end of the first frame and held a 24-20 halftime edge but couldn't match a 'Hawk drive in the third and fourth quarters.

Mark Middletown of Redstone led all scorers with 24 points.

MHS-Turtle Creek; Altoona to Battle Clairton Quintet

Pairings for the Monessen Movie Club's First Annual Basketball Tournament, on December 27 and 28, were announced today.

Clashing at 7:30 o'clock next Friday night to open the tourney action will be Altoona and Clairton High Schools.

Following to the Bear-Altoona battle, the local Greyhounds will take the floor to do battle with Turtle Creek in a 9 o'clock contest.

The championship and consolation games will be played at corresponding times on Saturday night.

Team title trophies and outstanding player awards will be made to the participating teams. The handsome awards are now on display at the Louis Studio on Donner Ave. here.

Local Touch

The Altoona game will have a local touch with a former Monessen cager, Phil Rice, piloting the Altoona entry. Should Altoona and Turtle Creek meet in one of the second games, Rice would be facing the team school who's team he coached for seven years before going to Altoona.

Outstanding officials will work the games with Phil Fair, Dick Philips, Boots Salotti and Bud Roman set for the officiating of the tourney games.

All of the four teams in the tourney have shown promise in exhibition tilts of being among the top teams in their sections.

Considerable interest has been shown in the tournament with all district newspapers and wire services giving it considerable space.

Clairton High-76 Monongahela-49

Clairton had little trouble with Monongahela on the Wildcats' floor last night as the Bears posed a 76-49 win.

Lane Promises Car To Minnie Minoso

HAVANA (UP)—Minnie Minoso, acquired by the Cleveland Indians in a recent trade with the Chicago White Sox, can drive off with General Manager Frank Lane's flashy Cadillac if he has "a good year" next season.

Lane offered the veteran outfielder a $40,000 contract and his own automobile Thursday when he arrived here for talks with Minoso and Cleveland manager Bobby Bragan.

"Minoso has been after my car for many years and I promise to give it to him if he has a good season or we win the pennant next year," Lane said.

Detroit, 49er 'Comeback Kids' In NFL Playoff Clash Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Detroit and San Francisco, both loaded with talented "comeback kids," tangle at Kezar Stadium Sunday before 60,000 fans for the Western Division title of the National Football League.

The Gamblers have made the Forty-Niners 3½ point favorites—largely because they will be playing on the home field, but partly because of the fact that veteran quarterback Bobby Layne is out with a broken ankle and two other regular first string offensive men have been sidelined with injuries.

The weather man is in a quandary on what to predict — but mainly the idea is that rain can be expected.

There was a time that the team with the best ground attack would win in the rain and mud. But nowadays the lads take tot he air when the weather is damp and the footing is bad for the runners.

So quarterbacks Y. A. Tittle for San Francisco and Tobin Rote for the Lions are expected to engage in an all-out aerial struggle. The two teams ran 1-2 in weakness in the air defense department during the regular NFL season, so some kind of a new pass completion record total for one game may be set.

Both coaches expressed confidence on the eve of the important tussle — but they agreed that "breaks" probably would decide the winner.

Commissioner Berl Bell has ruled that in case the regular playing time ends with the score tied, the two clubs will keep playing until one team or the other scores.

Gale Kerwin Snaps Archer's Streak

NEW YORK (UP)— Canadian Gale Kerwin, who snapped welterweight Jimmy Archer's winning streak at 12 straight, said today, "I did it with my new Sputnik—my improved straight right."

Sandy-haired Kerwin of Ottawa, Ont., but now fighting out of Valley Stream, N.Y., explained that he had concentrated on right counters and right leads during the weeks of preparation for Friday night's TV 10-rounder with Archer at Madison Square Garden.

Gale wound up with a majority decision over the 7-5 favorite. Referee Mark Conn called it a draw, 5-5 in rounds and 6-6 in points. But Judge Nick Gamboli favored Kerwin on rounds, 6-3-1, and Judge Harold Barnes agreed, 5-4-1.

Miracle Ride and Many Other New Features Offered in Buick

There are many new and outstanding features offered in the 1958 Buick, that B-58, that it is pretty hard to explain all of them to you. And you should, by all means, go to the Mon Valley Motors, Inc., Buick sales and service, 252 East Donner avenue, and this great new line of cars will really amaze you.

Here's what Buick manufacturers say:

We set out to give you a new kind of travel — and how well we succeeded, we ask you to judge.

We ask you to slide behind the wheel of this '58 Buick and aim that Dynastar Grille toward open country.

You'll experience a delicious sense of freedom from weight and mass — and with motion like no other car ever gave you before. That's a promise.

For no other car ever gave you a Flight Pitch Dynaflow with propellers that switch their pitch a million ways. . .

No other car ever gave you a B-12000 engine like this one — most modern engine that can be designed for today's gasolines — with 12,000 pounds of thrust behind every piston's power stroke. .

No other car ever gave you a Miracle Ride — plus Air-Poise Suspension that can float you on wings of pure air. . .

And no other car ever gave you "Velvet Wall" silencing, advanced ball-joint steering — Air-Cooled Aluminum Brakes that will bring you to a stop that's smooth and sure.

So see your Buick dealer soon. Drive this B-58 Buick. Test it. Put it through its paces. Discover a car born of more aviation principles than any other car in history.

A car that begins with a greater use of aluminum and soars to new heights from there.

A car that literally looks and feels like flight on wheels.

Sure as you're born, you'll be glad we made the suggestion.

Flight Pitch Dynaflow uses the infinitely variable pitch of modern plane propellers. Every change of your gas pedal pressure causes a switch of the pitch. You get perfect performance ratio always. Response was never so instant, so reassuring, so thrilling.

Miracle Ride — Plus Air-Poise Suspension — gives you Buick's traditional massive X-braced frame, rigid Buick Rotoflow Torque-Tube Drive, plus your choice of 4 coil springs or 4 cylinders of compressed air. Buick's new Air-Poise Suspension remains amazingly smooth, level, buoyant with any load or road.

Two Steelers Could Set Season Marks Against Cards Sunday

CHICAGO (UP)—The Chicago Cardinals stack up statistically better than their Pittsburgh Steeler foes in today's National Football League Eastern Division battle in every department but the league standings.

The Cards go into Sunday's game with a 3-8 season record behind them and it's no secret that they're under pressure from team management to wind up the 1957 campaign with a win.

The surprising Steelers — who everybody said would probably be resting at the division cellar come the finale—have managed to compile a 5-6 season record.

For Pittsburgh, however, the game could mean some individual league records. Halfback Billy Wells, a former Michigan State flash who is currently running third in league kickoff return standings with a 27.1 yard average, might beat out the Rams' Jon Arnett who is No. 1—but not by much, with only a 28 yard average.

And Steeler end Jack McClairen, who has been Earl Morrall's favorite target throughout the 1957 campaign, could win the pass-receiving title should he snare nine or more passes today.

Seven GP Bowlers Roll 500-Series

Seven bowlers hit in the 500 series in Grand Parlors City League action last night as the teams wound up the last night of play before a rest until January 8.

Two more weeks of the first half bowling remain.

Ray Echart and Eugene Jones paced the 500-clubbers, Echart getting a 571 three-game mark, Jones a 228 single game high. Jones also had a 563. Others in the top bracket were George Zilka (554), Steve Szabo (216-531), Mario Muccino (506), Francis Santoro (502), Eddie Kroskie (500).

League marks today show Cousins with a 1018 single game high and a 2799 three game mark. C. Daugherty has a 247 single high and George Curry a 607 three-game tops.

Standings — Cousins, 32-10, Elks 25-17, Cro-Ams 22-20, Aquarium 5-37.

Ted Williams Cops AL Slugging Title

CHICAGO (UP) — Ted Williams of the Red Sox added another title to his ever growing collection today when he was named the American League slugging champion for the ninth time in his career on the basis of his .731 percentage in 1957.

Williams' mark was the highest in the major leagues in 16 years. The Boston slugger hit for 307 total bases in 420 official times at bat. He hit 38 homers, 28 doubles and one triple while compiling a .388 average that also won him the batting title for the fifth time.

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees was runner-up to the 39-year-old Williams in slugging with a .665 average. Mantle was followed by Roy Sievers of Washington with .579, Gene Woodling of Cleveland with .51, and Vic Wertz, also of Cleveland, with .485.

Predicts Federal School Aid OK

WASHINGTON (UP) — Leaders of the National Education Assn. (NEA) predicted today Congress will approve at least part of their sweeping space-age program for federal support of public schools.

The five-point legislative program, which the nation's largest educational organization will lay before Congress when it reconvenes next month, carries an immediate price tag of $1,100,000,000 a year. It calls for a steady increase in federal contributions over the next five years, levelling off at $4,600,000,000 a year.

Administration officials had no immediate comment on the NEA plan. But it is known that President Eisenhower's staff is working on a much more limited program of federal aid to education, totalling about 250 million dollars a year.

The NEA proposals unveiled at a press conference here Friday were highlighted by a plea for "massive" federal support of all public schools systems in the nation "on a continuing basis."

The NEA said federal grants of $25 per school age child should be distributed to the states strictly on the basis of population.

State and local authorities would continue to exercise full control over school policies, and could use the federal money, at their own discretion, for teachers' salaries or classroom construction, or both.

The grants would be increased gradually to a level of $100 per school age child within five years.

The average outlay per school child at present is $332 a year. Nearly all of this comes from state and local tax funds.

Dr. William G. Carr, executive secretary, said this is the first time the 100-year-old NEA has advocated the federal government assume a continuing responsibility for helping to pay school costs. In the past, NEA proposals for federal aid have been in terms of short-term "emergency" programs of classroom construction.

Highway Patrol In All-out Effort

HARRISBURG (UP)—State Police Commissioner E. J. Henry has assigned all available men to highway patrol duty during the Christmas holiday.

Col. Henry said the force would make an "all out effort" to control and regulate traffic and hold accidents and fatalities to a minimum during the long holiday period. Henry said special emphasis would be placed on careless, reckless and drinking drivers.

Here 12 Days; New Citizen

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A Japanese woman became an American citizen Friday, only 12 days after arriving in this country as an alien.

Mrs. Saku Makamura Helmken took the oath of allegiance before Judge Rabe F. Marsh in what may be the fastest naturalization on record in the United States.

She was granted a waiver of the usual 30-day waiting period to accompany her husband, S-Sgt. William H. Helmken, to his new assignment in England.

Mrs. Helmken, who attended an English school and breezed through the language and history requirements for her citizenship, met her husband while he was stationed in Japan. They were married in Tokyo last Feb. 8.

Truman Diplomat Hits NATO

LONDON (UP) — Scholar-diplomat George F. Kennan delivered his own brief and bitter epitaph Friday night for the NATO Summit conference in Paris.

He said "nothing hopeful" had come from the Paris gathering of NATO's top leaders including President Eisenhower and that it would make the way to world peace "more difficult."

Kennan is former U.S. ambassador to Russia, was a policy maker under President Truman and helped create the Truman policy of containment of Communism.

In an interview over the British Broadcasting Corp. system, he said "the NATO agreement in principle to put nuclear missiles on the European continent prevents the United States and Britain from negotiating on the matter with Russia."

Kennan called for direct negotiations between the major East-West powers and emphasized his previous opposition to stationing missile bases on the European continent.

He also repeated a point he made in a series of six BBC lectures — that American, British and Russian troops should withdraw from Germany and that the nation should be united outside any blocks such as NATO or the Warsaw Pact.

Coincidentally, these measures were similar to those called for in letters from Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin to the West before start of the NATO conference.

Kennan is now visiting professor at Oxford and is a professor at the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton. His recent speeches brought banner headlines throughout Europe, and were believed by some to have exerted a strong influence on the NATO meeting.

Reuther Charges Senate Probers Stack Evidence

WASHINGTON (UP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther today accused a Senate rackets investigator of trying to stack evidence against his union with "fabricated conclusions."

Reuther, an AFL-CIO vice president, blasted the "improper and irresponsible conduct" of investigator John B. McGovern while inquiring into UAW activities for a forthcoming investigation.

The UAW boss also charged that in the investigation "certain members" of the Senate Rackets Committee were attempting to "smear our union for partisan and political reasons."

Reuther said in a letter to Committee Chairman John L. McClellan, that McGovern's activities were "fast destroying the conference of American labor in the fairness and objectivity of your committee."

Reuther said McGovern's tactics were "helping to protect the very corruption your committee was established to uncover."

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Gertrude Kizzle, who died one year ago today, December 21, 1956.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile
As in the days that used to be.
But in some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven, that happy life.
Sadly missed by Sons and Daughters

Elvis Booked Solid for Two Years in Army

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Rock 'n roll idol Elvis Presley, 22, was booked solid today for a two year engagement with the Army.

The guitar - thumping crooner got his induction notice Friday to report for duty at an unidentified post Jan. 20 — the same day he was scheduled to begin work on a movie in Hollywood called "King Creole."

"I'm kinda proud of it," Presley said referring to the draft notice. "It's a duty I've got to fill and I'm going to do it."

The singer, an only child, said he would "hate to leave my mother and father."

Presley, who got his start playing and singing in north Mississippi, would draw $78 a month as an Army private. He has earned as much as $50,000 for a single "live performance."

In Hollywood, studio production chief Y. Frank Freeman of Paramount, said Presley's induction Jan. 20 would cost the studio between $300,000 and $350,000 because of "preparatory investments" on the scheduled movie.

Freeman said he had already sent a letter to Presley's draft board in Memphis requesting an eight - week delay "so we won't lose this large sum of money."

The young performer, who will be 23 in January, said he would "go along" with Paramount's efforts to obtain a deferment. "I know they have lots of money in the picture, but I am not going to ask for any special favors for myself," he said.

Rumors of Royal Rift Dissipated At Annual Ball

WINDSOR, England (UP)—Princess Margaret appeared to be definitely back on the royal team today.

Rumors of a rift between Margaret and her sister, Queen Elizabeth, were all but dissipated Friday night at the annual royal household ball at Windsor Castle.

Elizabeth and Margaret sat together, laughed, cheered and exchanged jokes throughout the evening. Before the party, Margaret had dinner with the queen.

Margaret had made headlines recently for apparently skipping traditional family get-togethers. She failed to attend the Buckingham Palace dance for the help last week for the first time in 10 years, reviving the rumors of a rift.

But if Friday night was any indication, sources said, Elizabeth and Margaret are either "brilliant actresses" or have healed any split—if there ever was one.

More Draftees To Be Chosen

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Defense Department announced today it will boost to 13,000 the number of men to be drafted in February.

This compares with 10,000 in January and is the highest monthly level since last July when 13,000 were drafted.

All of the February draftees will be assigned to the Army.

The Defense Department said monthly draft calls for the rest of 1958 will be at about the February level.

The February draft call will bring to 2,283,430 the number of draftees since the start of the Korean War in June, 1950.

Gallatin Bank Holds Party

The Gallatin National Bank's Christmas Party for employes, officers, and directors was held Tuesday at the Uniontown Country Club. There were 180 personnel and guests present.

The program was provided by Aneurin Bodycombe and his 'Men About Town', well-known Pittsburgh singing group.

Also on the program was the bank's own Girls' Chorus, and a style show given by the girls of the bank, representing the various services offered to the bank's customers. Music for dancing was furnished by "Pappy" Glover and his group.

The Christmas Party is a much looked-for annual event among the bank's personnel.

Gypsy Rose Fined

NEW YORK — Entertainer-author Gypsy Rose Lee paid a $50 fine Friday for violating the multiple dwelling law in her six-room Manhattan house. She declared she would evict the tenants after the house was ruled to have been converted to apartments because the tenants paid rent and the rooms had private baths. She said she would use the entire building herself.

Lions Club Holds Family Christmas Party Thursday

The 14th annual family Christmas party of the Fayette City Lions Club was held on Thursday evening in the social rooms of the Methodist Church.

Approximately one hundred persons were present. The program was planned by Fred Weightman and introduced by the president, Robert Premoshis, Sr.

Following dinner, the newly organized choral group of the club, Jack Stockton, Joseph Moravek, Harold Keenan, Paul Jesick, Robert Premoshis Sr., Robert Premoshis Jr. and John Gulya and their accompanist Stanley Ledgerton, sang a group of Christmas carols.

Carolyn Barker sang a Christmas selection accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Clyde Wyatt. She also played a piano solo, Christmas Fantasy. Larry Sobek, accordionist, played Silent Night and Jingle Bells.

Mike Richardson offered a trombone solo and recitations were given by David Weightman, Bruce Smith, Kyle Miller, Bruce Richardson, and Cynthia Hare.

Vocal duets were presented by Cathy Premoshis and Elizabeth Russell and Carol Stephens and Elaine Strickler. An accordion solo by Adrian Figel who also played the accompaniment for his sister Doralea's vocal solo.

Richy Means, Joey Vesely and P. J. Vesely played piano solos and Paula Jacques with Diana Williams entertained with an accordion-flute duet.

Each member of the club brought canned goods to be presented to the Children's Aide of Fayette County. The Children's home in Uniontown will also be presented with a Rock and Whirl for their playground as a Christmas gift from the club.

Following the movies, cartoon and comedy reels shown by Tom Dent, Santa Claus arrived with a pack of gifts for everyone present.

Premoshis announced that the lighting contest in the area has met with excellent response. He said that the West Penn Power company has offered an additional prize of a lamp bringing the number of prizes up to five for the most outstanding displays.

Judging will be done from the standpoint of appeal and originality on the evenings of Dec. 21 and 22, with the winners being notified on Dec. 23.

The contest is open to everyone; no registration is necessary to qualify. The prizes are on display at the Fayette City Hardware.

Announcement was also made that the first meeting of 1958 will be held Jan 2 in the Methodist Church jointly with the Washington Township Lions.

School Children To Be Treated Monday Evening

The children enrolled in the Fayette City School, from Fayette City, Gillespie, Naomi and Brownstown, along with their younger brothers and sisters, will be the guests of the Fayette City Christmas Treat committee at the annual Christmas party in the Community Center on Monday evening.

An exciting program for the youngsters, with Christmas decorations, refreshments and a visit from St. Nicholas has been arranged to begin at 6 p. m.

A parent of the small children or their older brother or sister are invited to accompany them.

The Christmas party, for children of the community twelve years of age and under, is sponsored by these eight local civic and fraternal organizations: Eagles, Eagles Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion, American Legion Ladies Auxiliary, Fire Department, Lions, Community Building Association, and Fayette City Woman's Club.

This year no funds were requested from the public. All organizations represented on the committee will bear the expenses. In addition the women of both auxiliaries and the woman's club will provide cookies for the party.

Special Service Tomorrow at Methodist Church

The Sunday morning service at the Fayette City Methodist Church will have as its theme "Christ in Christmas."

There will be baptism of infants and adults, reception of members to the church, special music by the choir and the giving of the White Gift.

The Christmas sermon will be delivered by the church pastor, the Rev. Harry W. Beveridge. The White gift offering will be used for "Care and Share" a program of the Methodist Church to help others.

In the evening the Youth Fellowship and the Junior Choir will join forces for Carol singing. At the completion of the tour of the town the young people will return to the church for a social hour.

Has Space Proposal

WASHINGTON — Rep. Harry G. Haskell Jr. (R-Del.) plans to present to the administration a plan for a basic research program on the future use of space for peaceful purposes. Congress would appropriate $250,000 for the program, Haskell said.

Of the 1,886 colleges and universities in the United States, nearly 40 per cent of them are controlled by religious groups.

Don't Let the Gay Holidays Bring Any Disasters from Fire

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I don't like to discuss anything as tragic as fire at this time of the year. But with Christmas so close at hand, and with those dry trees we insist upon setting up in our living rooms presenting such a great potential danger, I've got to give you a few safety rules regarding fire.

Even without a Christmas tree in the house, the most likely place for a fire to start is in the living room or kitchen. Next in order are bedrooms and basements.

Keep plenty of safe ash trays about. These trays should be non-combustible, of course, and also non-spillable, non - tippable and large enough to hold plenty of ashes.

After holiday parties and every night before retiring, look beneath the sofa cushions and around stuffed chairs for accidentally dropped cigarettes.

Take a few minutes to plan emergency escape routes in your home. If fire should cut off the front or back doors, or both, decide now on the best way of getting outside safely.

If you have to dash through smoke and flames, hold your breath. Remember also that in a smoke-filled room the air is usually fresher near the floor.

Feel the door before opening it. If it is hot, block with furniture and seal with wet towels and blankets. Try to get out another way.

The first thing to do when a fire breaks out, naturally, is to get everyone safely out of the building. But don't jump from upper stories except as a last resort. Wait as long as you can for firemen to help you.

Once outside, never re-enter a burning building. The smoke and gases from even the smallest fire can be deadly. Since children very often try to go back into their homes, you had better keep them restrained.

Last year fires in North America took 11,100 lives and destroyed property worth $1,385,000,000.

Don't let our gay holiday season bring disaster to your home.

World of TV—

Leo Durocher 'Lippy' Over Game Telecasts

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Leo Durocher sounded like the fiery "Lip" of old today, loosing a blast at TV interests who plan to telecast major league baseball games on Sunday afternoons next season.

"It will kill baseball," Leo exploded. "They'll be cutting off the hand that feeds them."

Leo's notoriously low boiling point was reached when CBS announced it would broadcast a "Game of the Week" on the Sabbath. Inasmuch as he's an executive with NBC and telecasts Saturday ball games for that network, Durocher is not kindly disposed toward the opposition to begin with.

His concern, however, transcends network wrangling. He blames the sponsor and individual ball clubs which have agreed to the deal.

"Those telecasts will ruin minor leagues first," he claims. "Sunday is the big day financially for the minors. It's their life's blood. Who wants to see a minor league game when they can watch the big guys on TV?

"We thought about Sunday baseball telecasts when I joined NBC, but we gave up the idea when we realized what it would do to baseball.

"Our Saturday telecasts don't don't hurt anyone. Most minor leaguers play night games on Saturday. But Sunday night games are out of the question.

"If TV kills off minor leagues it will eventually destroy the big leagues. The majors get all their prospects from the bushes. Without small town baseball there is no place to season young players. Colleges can't fill the bill the way they do for pro football because baseball isn't important in colleges."

From Hollywood—

Young Actress Blasts The 'Little-boy Types'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The case against the scratch and squirm school of acting was strengthened today by pert Erin O'Brien who denounced Actors Studio graduates for portraying American men as a pack of neurotics.

A fiery colleen with a lusty approach to life, Erin says movies are losing women customers because there are no he-men among young actors.

"The spoiled little - boy types from New York all look as if they need baths and haircuts," she frowned.

An Outspoken Cutie

Erin looked as if she'd just stepped from a bubble bath, and her hair was cropped shorter than Elvis Presley's ducktail. She is an outspoken cutie who doesn't like generalities. She proved this by naming her pet dislikes among the unkempt set.

"The actors I'm talking about are Rod Steiger, Paul Newman, Anthony Franciosa and Ben Gazarra," she fumed. "And I don't dig Brando, either.

"Women prefer a man's man. Male types like John Wayne, Gary Cooper and William Holden. They don't have to visit a psychiatrist before deciding whether they should kiss a girl.

"But these younger actors behave as if they all needed nursemaids and mothers instead of girl friends."

Erin is content enough with Andy Griffith, her leading man in "Onionhead." He's a rough and tumble Southerner who doesn't mumble when he talks.

Erin went on to say the newcomers have invaded horse operas.

"The way they play Billy the Kid and other outlaws is downright funny. They'd have audiences believe that criminals are just misunderstood neurotics who hated their sisters.

"I've seen Westerns where the hero catches up with the villain, but instead of shooting down the bad man the new-type hero tries to understand him," she blazed. "It's a national disgrace.

"Actors today don't represent American men. I wonder what people in other countries think when they see our actors playing weak-sister roles. Nowadays the hero is as apt to break down and cry as he is to defend the heroine. No wonder the rest of the world is losing respect for Americans."

Erin warns she had better not be cast opposite one of the fragile imports from New York.

"By the time I got through with him he'd need a broken-bone specialist, not a psychiatrist," she laughed.

Penn State to Continue ROTC As Mandatory

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —The All University Cabinet, student governing body at Penn State University, has voted down a proposal to make ROTC training at the school voluntary rather than mandatory. The vote, taken Thursday night, was 18-6.

The proposal had been a subject of heated on-campus discussion for the past three weeks, but the cabinet vote now makes it a dead issue.

All male students at Penn State currently are required to take ROTC training during their first two years. Outstanding students may take advanced courses throughout the final two years.

Penn State, like all land - grant institutions, has an agreement in its charter to provide such military training in cooperation with the federal government.

Crime Delegate Faces Hearing In N. Y. Monday

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government has scheduled a hearing for Monday on whether to free on bail Rosario Bufalino, one of 60 persons who attended the "crime convention" at Apalachin, N.Y., on Nov. 14.

U. S. immigration agents arrested Bufalino in Pittston, Pa., on Tuesday for deportation proceedings. He is now being held in New York.

The government has charged him with failure to furnish notification of his address annually as required by law.

The Justice Department claims Bufalino is an alien born on Oct. 2, 1903 at Montedro, Sicily, Italy. Bufalino, who has used the aliases of Russell Bufalino and Ross Bufalino, contends he was born in the United States.

The Board of Immigration Appeals will hold the hearing here on whether to free him on bail.

Hunting Club Seeks Charter

Incorporators are Glenn Morris, Robert Buttermore, Walter Johnson, Edward Aspinwall, who in conjunction with Dr. Ralph Cox, of Connellsville, will act as directors of the organization.

Attorneys J. R. Smiley and J. R. Rygiel filed the charter application.

Church Groups in Skating Parties

Roller skating parties were held by the young adult clases of the Wyano E. U. B. church and the Youth Fellowship of Barren Run under the direction of the Rev. Ralph W. Brownfield.

The roller skating parties were held at the Rollerena in Perryopolis. The evening's fun was highlighted by "cake skates." The cake prizes were awarded to Mrs. John Moyer and daughter, Deanna Cross and Elaine Rozinsky.

East Germans Busy Making Toy Sputniks

By DONALD R. SHANOR

MUNICH, Germany (UP) — Twenty-five thousand little Sputniks will circle under Christmas trees in Communist East Germany this year.

East German factories have been just as busy turning out Nativity scenes and wooden figures of Santa Claus. But they are for export to the West only.

Throughout the Communist world, the propaganda machines are working hard to obscure the Christian origin of the holiday and turn it into a day of pagan praise to Communism. Christmas toys are an important part of this campaign.

The earth satellite, current trump card in Communist propaganda, is being produced by East German toy factories on a rush basis.

More Sputniks doubtless would be on the market in the other Soviet bloc nations but for bureaucratic production tangles in the state toy shops.

Strict Controls Enforced

In Czechoslovakia, toy production is subject to strict government controls and is planned a year in advance. The October launching of the Sputnik apparently caught the planners by surprise and there was no time to shift gears and have Sputniks ready for Christmas.

Polish children will also be Sputnik-less. The traditional teddy bears and dolls are the most popular toys there. Mechanical toys are also much in demand but are hard to get.

Communist Yugoslavia, well-armed neighbor of the Soviet bloc, reflects its defense-mindedness in its selection of toys. There are toy rifles, tanks, armored cars, fighter planes, and drums. There are more toys than ever in Belgrade shop windows this season, and more will be sold. The government has promised an extra month's salary as a Christmas bonus to all state employes.

Militaristic Ban Over

East Germany also has its share of lead soldiers and their weapons, after banning "militaristic" toys for more than a decade after World War II.

Hungarian and Romanian toys are simple carvings that carefully avoid the Christmas theme.

East Germany, Romania and Bulgaria place great emphasis on children's books as Christmas presents, but the fairy tales must follow the party line. The sleeping beauty in the East German version, for example, is rescued by a handsome young party activist rather than a prince.

Planned Zoning Adds Comfort, Convenience

Planned zoning for more comfort and convenience makes this small, one-story ranch-style home ideal for the modern living style of today's families.

Designed by Architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N. Y., the three-bedroom, and one-and a-half bath house has a "quiet zone," or sleeping wing removed from other living areas, an "activity zone" for entertaining and family get-togethers, and a "service zone" for kitchen, laundry, and "mud room."

The house was designed to fit on a 75 - by 100 - foot lot, and, although it contains less than 1,500 square feet of floor space, does not appear small, thanks to good styling.

Long, low lines are accentuated by a low-pitched roof with a single ridge, and a horizontal planter flanking the front entrance. Light-color asphalt shingles on the roof tend to create an illusion of greater height and width.

As the plan shows, all three bedrooms are completely private, opening off a central hallway with easy access to a bathroom with double, built-in lavatory.

The "activity zone" includes family room, living room, and dining room. The living room has a fireplace and is placed so that it will not be a traffic thoroughfare. The family room located off the kitchen is handy for informal meals and as a supervised play area.

An important part of the "service zone" is the "mud room," where children and pets can be be cleaned up as they enter the house. The "service zone" also has a handy lavatory.

Among construction features specified by the architect are brick veneer and redwood siding, hardwood floors, and thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings. The mineral wool makes the house more economical to heat comfortably, and helps save on installation and operating costs if air conditioning is desired.

Further information, blueprints, and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, L.I., N.Y. Refer to Plan No. 9558.

Square Footage Of Home Asked By Many Buyers

When an advertisement gives the square footage of a home, what does it mean?

This question is asked by many a prospective home buyer, the West Coast Lumberman's Association points out.

Floor area, the lumbermen explain, is measured by the outside dimensions of a home, so that the actual living space inside the home depends on how much room your walls take up. A wood frame house that is wood sidled will give a home buyer about 40 extra square feet of living space, the lumber experts state, since wood stud walls are much less bulky than masonry and brick.

How much is 40 extra square feet? About as much as an extra large bathroom.

Seven Tips on How To Save Money on Heating Your Home

Fuel bills so high they're getting you down? Here are seven tips on how to save heating dollars from one of the world's largest utility firms, Consolidated Edison, of New York:.

1. Insulation. This is the most important single item in fuel savings, since a thick blanket of insulation saves heat by keeping it inside. Recommendations for mineral wool insulation are at least 4 inches in ceilings and 3 inches in walls. Floors over crawl spaces, unheated garages, and porches also need insulation.

2. Storm windows and doors. Tight-fitting storm sash and doors "soon pay for themselves" in heat savings, says the utility firm. Storm windows and doors of ponderosa pine save more heat because wood is a natural insulator. Wood around the glass slows the passage of heat, while most other materials conduct it outside immediately.

3. Weatherstripping and caulking. Cracks around windows and doors actually are holes which let heat escape. They should be weatherstripped and caulked to seal heat in.

4. Open doors and windows. Close bedroom doors if windows are opened at night, and turn off the heating unit in the room. Doors on attached garages should be closed in winter, and vents on crawl spaces shut.

5. Fireplaces. When a fireplace is not in use, close the damper. Heated air can pour up the chimney, creating a draft which sucks cold air in through tiny crevices around windows and doors.

6. Radiators, convectors, and registers. Heating is efficient only when air circulates freely around these units. Avoid covering them with draperies, shelves, and radiator covers, and keep the units clean.

7. Care of the system. Practice regular maintenance according to manuals supplied with most heating systems, and have a professional inspection and cleaning annually.

Home Buying Considered Good Place to Invest

How shall we invest our money so that it maintains its purchasing power even during inflation?

This is a question confronting millions of U.S. families, especially those with only a limited amount of income to save.

"Buy a home", urges H. V. Simpson, executive vice president of the West Coast Lumberman's Association, and a leading business economist.

"A home is the best investment you can make. Its value is always constant if the home is kept in proper repair."

Simpson went on to outline why a home was the best hedge against inflation for the ordinary family. The value of the home increases as inflation creeps upward. It takes more dollars to build a new home, therefore the older home increases in direct proportion. Investment in a home is different from purchase of automobiles or other so-called durable goods which depreciate as they get older.

Simpson said that more attention is being given today to the things which help re-sell a home. Liberal use of wood paneled walls, builtins, kitchens of wood, like lovely, golden-toned west coast hemlock or corn gold Douglas fir, insure quick sale and resale.

Sitka Spruce Is Strongest Wood

Strongest known natural substance in the world for its weight is said to be the wood of the Sitka Spruce tree, native to the west coast of North America. This wood has long, strong fibers, was prized in two world wars as material for aircraft construction. Nearly as strong is west coast hemlock, next most desired aircraft wood, and Douglas fir, both widely used in home construction in peacetime.

QUESTION BOX

Q — A neighbor advised us that the combination storm and screen windows and doors we're thinking of buying would spoil the rustic appearance of our house, which is a ranch-type with natural wood siding. Is he right?

A — Not if you buy combination storm and screen windows and doors of ponderosa pine. The wood will harmonize ideally with the sidewalls and can be stained or painted as desired.

Q — I've read that planning an exterior color scheme for a house always starts with the roof. Why is this?

A — The most practical reason is that the roof color probably will outlast all other colors. Asphalt shingles have a long service life, while paint needs renewing every few years. Another reason is that the roof usually presents the largest expanse of color and is a unifying background for the color of siding, trim, doors, shutters, and the like. These colors should blend with the roof color, match it, or be in pleasing contrast with it.

Q — The stucco finish on my house has hundreds of fine cracks in it. What can I apply to fill the cracks and make the house look better?

A — Small, hairline cracks can be filled with a cement wash brushed over the stucco. Prepare the wash by thinning Portland cement with water to a consistency of paint. Damp the entire surface and apply wash with a stiff brush, using a circular motion.

Q — What's the best way to keep water pipes from sweating?

A — Wrap them with insulation. This keeps pipes at an even temperature and prevents condensation. The insulation is especially valuable on hot water pipes, since it prevents heat loss.

Green Wanted Most

Green is the most popular roofing color for American homes, asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau. Asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau.

White, however, is rapidly gaining as a preferred "color" in asphalt shingles, especially in the South. White asphalt shingles help make a house cooler in summer by reflecting much of the sun's heat.
